PROPHECY

Of Late Patrick Ford as to Downfall of the British Empire.

Breaking of English Cabinet Points to Fulfillment of Prediction.

Time May Be at Hand For Punishment of England's Oppression.

SKETCH OF IRELAND'S FAMINE

With the retirement of Sir Edward Carson from the British Cabinet, coupled with the withdrawal of Premier Asquith, many see the demoralization of the British Empire in the present war, and for the first time in a hundred years John Bull is fighting with his back to the wall. Sir Edward Carson, who now shows himself to be a rank quitter, was the former leader of the Ulster opposition to home rule in Ireland and distinguished himself by going to Germany to intrigue for the interference of the Kaiser against Great Britain enforcing its scheme of an unpartisan, all-Irish, native Parliament upon the nation. Carson claimed to be his, even though he never accepted one of its ideals. It was at his suggestion that Ulster armed like a country at war for the purpose of opposing home rule, the exportation of arms to that section of Ireland being winked at, while the English troops fired on a defenseless, unarmed crowd in Dublin because of history and the landing of arms to the Irish Volunteers. Despite the fact that the Ulster troops were well armed before the present war, they have never gone to the front, and now their leader, Mr. Carson, further adds to their disgrace by quitting under fire.

Notwithstanding the paid press clippings and the boasting of the pro-English press in this country, it is very evident and patent to all that England has cut a sorry figure in the present war, and no matter what the outcome John Bull will have to take a back seat in the congress of nations. Irishmen everywhere, and the average student of history see the fulfilling of the prophecy of Patrick Ford, the deceased editor of the Irish World, who in a letter to Gladstone many years ago predicted the downfall of England to come as that of ancient Rome. In his famous book, "The Criminal History of the British Empire," Mr. Ford told of the oppression and cruelty practiced upon the poor flag of England floated; the continued suppression of Ireland's industry and its people, legalized robbery in China and control of the opium trade; eighteen English-made famines in India in 100 years; butchery and robbery of the Boers in the Transvaal.

Referring to the three years' famine in Ireland, Mr. Ford told how the Irish people perished of hunger in the midst of abundance. In 1848, when the men of Galway town, driven out from their houses by the cries of their hungry little ones, offered to lay hands on the products of their own soil, they were shot down like dogs, and when the United States ship Constellation sailed into Ireland with American food for its perishing people she sailed for three English ships laden with Irish wheat, sheep and cattle, sailing out from thence. Was ever such mockery before witnessed by the world. During that time the Eviction Squad, known as the "Crowbar Brigade," was mercilessly expelling the Irish people, twenty thousand human beings thrown out on the road, homeless and alone. Some parts of the country appeared like an enormous churchyard, the numerous gables of the unroofed dwellings seemed to be a gigantic tombstones. They were indeed records of decay and death. The heart of the world wept at the spectacle, but England chuckled with diabolical glee at the sight. "The Celt is gone with a vengeance," roared the London Times.

From 1841 to 1911 under the persecution and oppression of England the population of Ireland decreased from 8,195,597 to 4,381,951, a loss of 3,813,646, while on the other hand Scotland, of approximately the same size in area, went from 2,620,184 to 4,759,521, an increase of 2,139,337, the land of Scotland composed principally of unproductive highlands, while the soil of Ireland is rich almost to rankness in many counties, such as Meath, Tipperary and Wick. England and the world knows that it was not lack of energy to develop the resources of love of their country that drove those Irish people into exile. In his prophecy Mr. Ford said: "I blush for common humanity when I contemplate the picture. I would, for England's sake, these things had never been. Nor would any satisfaction wring out of your blazing cities in the way of vengeance be reckoned by thoughtful Irishmen as a compensation for the evils wrought. The world has sapped full of horrors. Good men of all nationalities are sick of strife, bloodshed and violence. But your empire is doomed! It will fall as Rome fell—down with a crash."

LEXINGTON.

The Lexington municipal primary, held last Saturday, passed off quietly and resulted in a great victory for James C. Rogers, who won the nomination for Mayor, his nearest competitor being James L. Watkins. These two will fight it out in November, with the chances all in favor of Rogers, who possesses every qualification for the office. For City Commissioners there were sixteen candidates, the successful ones being George Land, Judge John Riley, W. H. McCormick, James P. Kearns, Harry Schoonmaker, J. M. Bronston, F. G. O'Connell and C. H. Wilkerson. From these four will be elected in November.

SIXTY YEARS.

Archbishop Paul Bruchesi, of Montreal, celebrated his sixtieth birthday anniversary on Wednesday. The distinguished prelate enjoys excellent health and seems good for many more years.

LECTURE AND CONCERT.

A programme of much merit has been arranged for the free lecture and concert to be given tomorrow night at St. Peter's Hall. Seventh and Garland. The Concordia Singing Society will render three numbers, "Der Wald," "Der Lasse" and a German choral, "Tannenbaum" and "My Old Kentucky Home" will be sung by the audience. Given under the auspices of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Peter's church, they invite the public without any charge for admission.

HAPPY ORPHANAGE EVENT.

Last Sunday, most beautiful weather prevailing, was one long to be remembered by the orphan girls and boys of our three orphanages—St. Joseph's, St. Vincent's and St. Anthony's. Upon invitation of St. Joseph's Orphan Society the children of the other two homes, as well as officers and members of the Catholic Orphan Society, were invited to spend the afternoon at the home of St. Joseph's. Through the kindness of President Schildt the officers of St. Joseph's and the Ladies' Sewing Society the children were given a royal time. The visiting members were shown through the building, and to a great many people present there was a revelation when shown through the well equipped and well kept home. There is the steam laundry with up-to-date machinery, the bakery with plenty of flour on hand, the little hospital in the rear, though lucky not much needed, the little home for the garden, barn for the animals used on the place, etc. In a few well chosen words President Schildt addressed those present in the assembly hall, thanking those who attended, and made a strong plea for co-operation on the part of all societies to bring about necessary laws to punish adequately delinquent parents who neglect their offspring. He also congratulated the Catholic Orphan Society on the work accomplished during their short period of existence and expressed the hope that both societies would work together as they have done, to the end that at no distant date our three orphanages would rank among the best in the country and be a credit to our diocese. Responses were made by Rev. Fathers Raffo and White, and William Meehan, President of the Catholic Orphan Society. On the whole the event was a most happy one, binding more closely together the two societies as well as providing a pleasant outing for the children of the three orphanages.

LAUDED HOLY NAME PARADE.

The parade of the Holy Name Society of the diocese of Baltimore, in which 17,000 Catholics of Baltimore and other Maryland cities, Washington and Alexandria marched for three hours, was lauded by Protestant ministers from Washington pulpits. Even the Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, who is bitterly anti-Catholic, declared that "the desire to combat blasphemy is the excellent object of the millions banded together for that purpose, and may God bless their efforts." He added that the parade was the religious event of the week in the nation's capital.

The Rev. John McMurray, pastor of the Union Methodist Episcopal church, extolled the work of the Holy Name Society and suggested the formation by the Protestant churches of a similar organization to be called the "Holy Day Society." Speaking editorially of the demonstration the Baltimore Sun says: "The Holy Name Societies of the Baltimore archdiocese are preaching, in such annual parades as that of Sunday a forcible sermon not only in favor of religion and morality, but are rendering a genuine service to the cause of intellectual reverence, the man who blasphemes the name of the Creator, or who takes it lightly on his lips, is cultivating a general habit of irreverence that no one of intelligence should care to foster in himself. Superstition and reverence are not the same thing any more than are irreverence and enlightenment. The tendency of the day is toward irreverence in everything toward profaning and making common all the things which were formerly held in esteem and honor. The test of a progressive mind, of genuine intellectualism, is supposed by many persons to be a scorn of tradition and emancipation from ancient beliefs. Very often, however, such scorn and freedom are only demonstrations of mental shallowness, of want of balance, of readiness to follow every new economic or political will-o'-the-wisp that crosses the path. The habit of reverence in our mental attitude toward life and its daily problems is worth while as a conservative and restraining influence, and the Holy Name Societies in the emphasis which they put on it are doing a constructive and philosophical as well as a religious work."

CENTENNIAL

Grand Celebration of St. Augustine's Church Makes History.

Bishops and Priests and Visitors From Other Places Take Part.

Sacrament of Confirmation Administered by the Bishop of Louisville.

EXERCISES CLOSED WEDNESDAY

This has indeed been a grand week for the Catholics of Lebanon and Marion county, the home of famous Catholic institutions and the birthplace of Martin John Spalding, fourth Bishop of Louisville and one of the most distinguished members of the American hierarchy when he became Archbishop of Baltimore. The occasion was the centennial celebration of St. Augustine's church at Lebanon, one of the oldest in Kentucky. Soon after St. Augustine's church was organized a log building was erected, this being in 1814. This simple pioneer structure was used as a house of worship until 1821, when a brick church was erected near the site of the present church. In 1870 a larger and more modern edifice was erected and used as it was built until 1911, when it was remodeled along modern lines and beautifully decorated. For several weeks experts had been engaged in renewing the decorations of the present church, and it presented a beautiful appearance for the reception of the many distinguished visitors. St. Augustine's church today is under the pastorate of the Rev. Father Joseph A. Hogarty and has a large and earnest membership. It is now perhaps one of the most prosperous Catholic parishes in the State.

The exercises commemorative of the centennial, which continued three days, opened on Sunday, the public buildings, business houses and private residences being elaborately decorated with flags and bunting and brilliantly illuminated for the festivities. Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue, Bishop of Louisville, Right Rev. Joseph Charrand, Co-adjutor Bishop of Indianapolis, and a large number of noted clergymen and laymen from a distance honored the centennial with their presence. A special train was run from this city Sunday morning and a great crowd attended the opening ceremonies, in which a number of Louisville men took part. The first mass of the centennial was celebrated by the Rev. J. C. Kearns, S. J., of Mobile, Ala., who preached on "Marion County as the Cradle Land of the West." Father Kearns, although young, was Vice President of the noted Spring Hill College at Mobile. High mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock, when another Kentuckian, the Right Rev. Monsignor E. E. Spalding, V. G., of Alton, Ill., preached an eloquent sermon on St. Augustine's Parish and Pioneer Life.

Sunday afternoon the laymen's celebration was held, Judge H. W. Rives presiding over the exercises, which were opened with Handel's "The Glory of God," sang by a well trained chorus. Judge Samuel J. Boldrick, of Louisville, whose birthplace and early home was in St. Augustine's parish, spoke on "Bishops and Priests." Dr. Irvin Abell, of Louisville, who also was a former member of St. Augustine's church, gave an address on "Valiant Women and Distinguished Laymen." W. W. Spalding, of Washington, D. C., another of Marion county's sons, spoke on "St. Augustine's Parish and the City of Lebanon." A number of hymns and other selections were given by St. Augustine's choir, of which George Leitner is director; Miss Hilda Goodin, assistant director; and Miss Jeannette Hipp, organist. The choir members are Misses Lucille Doody, Alma Abell, Anna Spalding, Ida Bickett, Margaret Bickett, Nettie Madden, Gertrude Clark, Joe Abell, Julia Goodin, Bessie Abell, Marguerite Corcoran, Frances Abell and Clementine Brown. Messrs. Heffernan, Robert, Howie, Warren, Robert Warren, Richard Cooper, Richard Cooper, Will Madden, Ivo L. Canary, Prof. Joseph Wuerth and Will Timmons.

The centennial was continued Monday morning, when the Right Rev. Bishop Charrand, of Indianapolis, consecrated St. Augustine's church. Solemn high mass was sung at 10 o'clock, when Rev. Father William J. Howlett preached the sermon and Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue administered the sacrament of confirmation. Memorial services were conducted in the afternoon, Rev. John T. O'Connor, pastor of the Holy Name church, this city, preaching on "Father Theodore Radin, Proto-Priest, Vicar General." Following the vesper service at 7:30 o'clock the Rev. J. J. Abell, of St. John, preached and paid high tribute to Father Nerinckx's successors at Lebanon.

Thursday was clerical day, the third and last of the centennial celebration, and passed off in accordance with the programme and with a good attendance at all the exercises. Eloquent and able sermons were preached by the Rev. William P. Hogarty, of New Haven, and Rev. Charles P. Rivo, of Louisville, whose theme was the "Centenary of St. Augustine's Parish," and at the masses there were splendid musical programmes. After the last mass the clergy were entertained by the ladies of the congregation in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple. The celebration closed with solemn vespers at 7:30 o'clock and a sermon by the Very Rev. F. O'Daniel, O. P. S. T. M., of Washington, D. C.

RECENT DEATHS.

The funeral of Miss Katie Connelly took place Monday morning from St. Joseph's church. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Connelly, 1414 Story avenue, and a sister of Miss Agnes and William Connelly.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Reilly, who died Monday morning at Edward Park, was held Wednesday morning from St. Augustine's church, Jeffersonville. Surviving her are six children, Misses Elizabeth, Marguerite, Mary, Annie, Alice and Jeannette Reilly.

When death claimed Mrs. Margaret Kempf on Monday morning St. Peter's church lost one of its oldest and most faithful members. Mrs. Kempf, who was known in the parish as "Grandma Kempf," was eighty-seven years old, and was active until stricken with paralysis three months ago at her home, 1613 Garland avenue. She was twice married and is survived by three sons—John, Frank and Theodore Howe. Her funeral took place Thursday morning with requiem high mass.

Edward P. Gift, beloved husband of Daisy Gift, passed into eternal rest Monday morning at his home, 506 North Seventeenth street, leaving many friends and relatives who mourn his untimely death. His funeral was held Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church. The deceased was quite well known in Chicago and Cincinnati.

Mrs. Martha Trainer, widow of James Trainer and an aged resident of this city, died Wednesday morning at her home, 2408 Stearns street. She was a member of St. Cecilia's church, from where the funeral took place Friday morning. Surviving her are four sons, Mack, John, William and James Trainer, and two daughters, Misses Betty and Mary Trainer.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Alexander Vertes, M. D., Ph. D., will lecture to Trinity Council's members and friends in their club rooms, Baxter and Morton, Monday night on "The Cause of the European War." Dr. Vertes, having served as an officer in the army in the Balkan war, and having lived in every country now engaged in the present conflict, understands the political controversies which exist between the warring countries, and is in a position to give some valuable information. Dr. Vertes has at the present time two uncles, one a Major General, the other an Adjutant General, actively engaged at the front. His brother, a Lieutenant Colonel, was with the Crown Prince at the time he was killed. Dr. Vertes is a distinguished gentleman of foreign birth, having dined with King William of Prussia at the invitation to test in the Buckingham Palace from the King of England, and knows quite a number of the crowned heads of Europe. There will be no admission charges and the public is invited to attend.

CAKES A SPECIALTY.

An array of toothsome homemade cakes will be the feature at the euchre and lotto to be given at Bertrand Hall next Friday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the St. Louis Church Debt and Building Fund, the ladies on the committee of arrangements having made a special effort in urging the women of the parish to furnish or bake a cake for this affair. In addition to the cakes many handsome and novel prizes will be disposed of during the afternoon and evening to the fortunate ones at euchre and lotto, games will be called at 3 and 6 o'clock. The proceeds will be used in defraying the expense of painting and frescoing the church, which work is now going on rapidly, and the contractors expect to complete it before the holidays.

LEBANON-GRAVEN.

At St. Charles Borromeo church Wednesday afternoon Miss Marguerite Lehan, the accomplished daughter of Fire Chief and Mrs. Timothy Lehan, became the bride of Clyde A. Graven, manager of the candy department of the Louisville Grocery Company and a popular member of Lecklin Council. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Raffo and was witnessed by relatives and many friends of the worthy couple. Following the ceremony the bride and groom were given a reception at the Lehan home. Twenty-fourth and Broadway, after which they left for a honeymoon trip of two weeks.

Fowler by unanimous election as Faithful Admiral. The other officers chosen were John M. Hannan, Faithful Navigator; Harry A. Appling, Faithful Comptroller; Harry T. Colgan, Faithful Pilot; Col. O'Brien, John A. Doyle and S. R. Hardman.

REPUDIATED

Archbishop Moeller Says Catholic Dry League Misuses Name.

Condemns the Movement as a Palpable Fraud Upon the People.

Bishops Can Not in Conscience Indorse What Is Contrary to Doctrine.

QUOTES FROM BISHOP HARTLEY

Archbishop Moeller, ranking prelate in the Archdiocese of Cincinnati, last Saturday repudiated the so-called Catholic Prohibition League of Ohio and stated that the organization's use of the name Catholic is "misleading, unwarranted and unauthorized."

The Archbishop is also quoted as follows: "I know that I have not approved any organization of that character, and I can say the same for Bishop Hartley of Columbus and Bishop Schrems of Toledo and Bishop Farrelly of Cleveland. The very purpose of the organization is contrary to the Catholic doctrine of freedom of the will, and obviously none of the church's Bishops can do otherwise than repudiate the same. It may be that one or two Catholics, for reasons of their own, have banded together in an organization of this kind, but that is their own affair. They have no right, however, to make it appear that the church as such is behind the movement, or even that it has the moral support of any of the Bishops of this State."

"In their attempt to accomplish what I contend, legislation will never bring about, prohibitionists have not hesitated to go to any extreme, and the advertisements now appearing in the newspapers seeking to impress the public that the Catholic church is supporting this movement bears out this fact and is a palpable fraud."

"As the head of this Metropolitan See, I wish to emphasize that no Catholic layman or priest has the right to use the name of the Catholic church as an indorsement of any movement without the sanction of the Bishop of the diocese in which he resides. The Bishops are the proper authorities to say what is Catholic and what is not. The Bishops of Ohio have not as yet delegated this authority, and it is certainly unbecoming, to say the least, for these in no way associated with the church to make unwarranted use of its name to further their hobbies."

"For the reasons stated above, I absolutely repudiate the so-called Catholic Prohibition League of Ohio and condemn the same insofar as the use of the name Catholic may indicate that it has the official sanction of the church or the hierarchy of this State."

The Archbishop then called attention to an utterance of Bishop Hartley, of Columbus, in which that prelate says that "The Catholic Prohibition League is the contradiction in terms adopted by a new set allied to the Anti-Saloon League. How strangely out of joint is the word Catholic in such an association, the old heretical sect of the Manichees, undone by the logic and eloquence of St. Augustine, finds its counter part in the Catholicism of the Prohibition party." Speaking of the attempt of some Catholics to bring the church into politics, the Columbus prelate says: "How wanton and false are the movements of those who would dishonor their royal mother by attempting to make her a scullion in political trickery."

DIAMOND JUBILEE.

This has been a history making and festive week for the Sisters of Providence, who have been celebrating their diamond jubilee at St. Mary-of-the-Wood near Terre Haute, Ind. The jubilee opened with the reception of guests on Monday and closed with the banquet Thursday night. There was a large gathering of the alumnae body and many distinguished clergymen took part in the exercises. The jubilee mass was celebrated Wednesday morning in the convent church, with Bishop Charrand presiding. Bishop Charrand was celebrant and Archbishop Glennon preached the sermon.

On October 22, 1840, six Sisters from France arrived at Terre Haute to found the order in this country, which now numbers 1,600. The order was founded in the Valley of the Loire by young women of the nobility and aristocracy whose estates had been lost in the years following the revolution and whose families had been separated by varying conditions of the Napoleonic reign. They were all refined and they started a school for girls who desired what was then higher education in the arts and literature, for which the Sisters were well adapted as teachers. A daughter of Count du Roscoat was the first Mother Superior.

Sister Theodore, in charge of the party that founded St. Mary-of-the-Wood, was a daughter of a General in Napoleon's army who was killed in the campaign in Spain. She wrote of the arrival in the forest on the banks of the Wabash, far away in many respects from the banks of the Loire, that the cabin was not so inhabitable as the cattle barn in her native country. A year later she went to Paris and was made much of as "an angel from the forests," as the Archbishop of Paris called her when she dined with him, and something was said about the violation of a custom forbidding women dining the clergy. "This is not a woman," he said, "she is an angel from the forest." King Louis Philippe, Queen Amelia and Madame Adelaide, the King's sister, gave personal attention to Sister Theodore's solicitations for aid.

The estate across the river, covering hundreds of acres, has been managed solely by Sisters. The marble chapel, no doubt the costliest church edifice in the Middle West, with an altar on which workmen spent years in Italy, is surrounded by other costly buildings for use of the Sisterhood and for the academy and the college for women. There is a coal mine, hothouses, fruit plants and a large farm, all of which is managed by Sisters, at the head of whom is Mother Cleophas, who was Miss Foley, of Terre Haute, when she entered the order half a century ago. Mother Cleophas is recognized as a woman of executive ability, and under her generalship increased accommodations and growth of the order have been accomplished.

FATHER YORK'S ESTATE.

The will of the late Father Thomas York was probated Tuesday, and shows that, like all priests, his estate was small, the bulk being insured. John Amos York, Jr., son of Michael York, of Watertown, Mass., is given a gold watch and chain, while the library of the testator is bequeathed to John Amos York, Jr., son of Michael York, and Robert Stack York, son of William York, also of Watertown. The household furniture and pictures are bequeathed to the succeeding rector of St. Paul's church, also his vestments. The sisters of the testator who share equally in the residue of the estate, including the insurance policies, which amount to $6,000, are Mary E. and Ann Jane York, of Watertown. Peter J. Cosgrove is named executor of the will.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

The cornerstone of the new school building being erected by St. Augustine's congregation in Jeffersonville and to cost $33,000 will be laid with impressive ceremonies tomorrow afternoon. The exercises, which will begin at 9 o'clock, will be preceded by a parade in which all the Catholic organizations of the city will take part. Thomas Mullin will be Chairman at the exercises and Judge Fortune will deliver the address. Francis B. Shepherd will be Marshal of the parade, which will march through the principal streets, headed by Willie's band. The school building will be two stories and a basement and will stand on the lot at the back of the church on Locust street. The following have the arrangements in hand: Joseph T. Voigt, General Chairman; Thomas Mullin, Richard Kennedy, John Tracy, Charles Tracy, James M. James, James Marra, Archie Kehoe, Martin Conroy, B. A. Coll, George Heuser and John Kenney. The parade will form on Warder Park and will proceed over the following route to the school site: South on Spring street, west on Market, north on Ohio, east on Maple, north on Walnut, east on Court avenue, south on Meigs avenue, west on Chestnut to Walnut street, where the parade will be reviewed as it files past to the scene of the cornerstone laying.

SETTLEMENT BY ROCKEFELLER.

John D. Rockefeller has come to a settlement with the Catholic Foreign Mission Society at Maryknoll, Ossining, N. Y., in its effort to secure a parcel of land on Pocantico hills. Three years ago the society signed an agreement to purchase from Joseph Oussant fifty acres of land adjoining Rockefeller's property. A few days later an attempt was made to sell the same piece of property to a Rockefeller agent at a considerable advance. The Foreign Mission Society at once brought suit for specific performance against both the owner and John D. Rockefeller. A decision in favor of the Mission Society was given by Judge Keogh at White Plains. An appeal was taken, but the first decision was confirmed by the Appellate Division. At Albany there was a reversal on a technicality and the case was sent back to the lower court for more certain evidence on a question of fact. The Mission Society immediately announced through its attorney, John K. M. Ewing, of Tarrytown, its determination to continue the case, and was prepared to do so when a proposition was made by the defendants entirely favorable to the society. The society shortly after beginning its suit found an excellent site above Ossining, which it will make its definite home.

PROMISING COLONIES.

This week the Catholic Colonization Society of which Archbishop Glennon is Director General and whose headquarters are located in the Temple building, Chicago, endorsed two more colonies at the gates of thriving towns in the South. One is located near Mobile, Ala., and the other near Shreveport, La., and already a number of settlers are ready to move on the lands.

FOR CATHOLIC DAY.

Tomorrow will be Catholic day at the Panama-California Exposition and will bring out a record attendance. A military mass, a parade, a picnic in the Pepper Grove and an excellent programme of athletics are the principal features. Archbishop Hanna, of San Francisco, and other prelates and church dignitaries have been invited and are expected to attend.

DEMOCRATS

Plan Rousing Rallies Closing Days of the Campaign.

Over Confidence May Decrease Majority of Party in Election.

Republicans Have Big Campaign Fund Furnished by Eastern Trusts.

A SPLENDID LOCAL TICKET

Only ten days remain of the present State political campaign, and unless there is a miraculous change in the situation, early predictions made as to the election of A. O. Stanley for Governor and the entire Democratic State ticket will be verified.

The writer does not agree with the predictions made by several of the Democratic speakers, in which they say that the ticket will win by an overwhelming majority. Congressman Campbell Cantrill placing his estimate at 50,000. As stated above, Stanley and the ticket are certain to be elected, but the majority will not be so large for several reasons, among them being the fact that the Democrats throughout the State are guilty of over-confidence, many taking it for granted that the ticket will be successful, and this class will leave it to the other fellow to vote. Another reason is that the Progressive vote will be found back in the Republican column, while another cause is that the Republicans will have a big campaign fund, enabling them to get out their full vote.

Many have wondered how the Republicans have been able to raise a large campaign fund, especially when they are out of power in the city, State and nation, but it is rumored that large trusts and corporations in the East have donated a big fund to the Kentucky Republicans, not because of any interest in Morrow and his ticket, but with the object in view of cementing the party for next year, when they hope to hear Wilson for the Presidency.

That the above is plausible is seen by the actions of both the State and local Republican committees, who are spending money lavishly in street car, sign-board and bill-board advertising, all of which bear the slogan by which the trusts hope to bamboozle the workingman voter next year and that "full dinner pail" chestnut.

Another indication that there is a big Republican fund is the way in which the Louisville Herald dropped the Bull Moose like a hot potato and can be found daily preaching the Morrow doctrine. It was only a short time ago that the Herald contained daily ringing syndicate editorials concerning the Utopian dream of the Roosevelt party, and no language was too bitter to use in abuse of Cannon, Aldrich, Barnes and other big Republican leaders; but now Drexler, the Progressive nominee for Governor, is never given a mention and the Bull Moose ticket has been dropped from the columns, all of this being in the play to have the voters of that party come back in the ranks of the G. O. P. and cast their vote for Morrow. In return for the Herald betrayal of the Republican cause the Republican weekly will be discontinued after the election, the local Republican Committee agreeing to finance it until election day only.

The local Democratic organization does not intend to be caught napping by the rum-shoe methods of the local Republican committee and are planning ward meetings and a rousing rally for the close of the campaign. In addition the district chairmen and precinct captains will make a personal canvass to bring out the full registered Democratic vote in this district, realizing that a mere vote of 9,000 will have to be contended with on election day. All realize that it would be a lasting shame and disgrace to allow the present splendid ticket to be defeated by this fungus vote, and there is no reason in the world why every Democrat and Independent in this district shouldn't be persuaded to come to the polls on election day, and if they come it is safe to say they will be found voting the straight Democratic ticket from A. O. Stanley for Governor down to the candidate for Constable.

A vote for the Democratic ticket is not only an indorsement of the Wilson and McCreary administration but is also an indorsement of Mayor Buschmeyer's splendid local administration as well. The local General Council is one of the best in years and has distinguished itself by harmonious action, if no other else, in every movement intended for the betterment of the city and surroundings.

MADE FEEL GOOD.

With President Mark Ryan in the chair the meeting of Division I. A. O. H. last week was very interesting, while the report that the funds are increasing made those present feel good. When County Secretary Dan O'Keefe's communication was read there was no question but that the division favored quarterly meetings of the County Board. A hearty greeting was given Martin Gavin, who gave an interesting account of his Western trip and visits to the Hibernians of San Francisco and the two California expositions.

SHOWS GOOD SENSE.

A committee, consisting of prominent members of the Protestant Federation of Churches, that has been working aggressively to get the Protestant version of the Bible taught in the public schools, got a cold turnaround from the Indianapolis Board of School Commissioners last week. Commissioner Joseph Keller voted to "lay the whole matter on ice," and his motion was carried unanimously.

Commissioner Keller has held all along that to admit the teaching of the Bible in the public schools, which are supposed to be non-sectarian, would open the way for much opposition and controversy, owing, as he says, "to the divergent religious views represented." Of course this is quite true and a sound and sensible argument. The Board of School Commissioners of Indianapolis, on which there is not one Catholic member, is to be congratulated on its common sense and fairness.

NOT IN THEIR LINE.
A return engagement of "Damaged Goods" is being presented in Louisville this week, and to date no one has heard any protests from the few conspicuous leaders of the Men's Federation, who heretofore have posed as the guardians of public morals. It is supposed that their inactivity is due to the fact that there is no politics involved.

LEHAN'S REPORT.
Fire Chief Timothy Lehan's annual report, a complete review of the department for the past year, shows excellent work on the part of the fire fighters. The Louisville fire department has been handicapped, lacking both men and apparatus, and therefore the city government should speedily carry out the Chief's recommendations. The record made the past year has not been surpassed anywhere, but with lack of facilities for fighting fires this can not continue.

GREAT FARCE.
Close perusal reveals the fact that the Carranza guarantees do not extend to "religious persons"—that is, to priests and nuns—who may be accused in the future of participating in Mexican politics, and the decision as to what constitutes participation rests with the Carranzista politicians. Here is religious freedom of a novel complexion. Yet it is accepted in Washington as a fulfillment of the condition pledged a year ago that no government would be recognized in Mexico which did not guarantee religious freedom! Through the President we bowed to Carranza's insults and accepted his contemptuous replies with equanimity. And now we accept "guarantees" that are not worth the paper upon which they are written and extend him recognition! It is a fitting climax to the contemptible farce that has been played in Washington for the last two years.

CARRANZA'S RECOGNITION.
Venustiano Carranza, the bandit, the cutthroat, the outlaw, the persecutor of the Catholic church, the robber and despoiler of her sanctuaries, schools, convents and hospitals, the murderer of priests, the leader of vandal hordes whose nameless outrages and indignities to pure, consecrated nuns and defenceless women and children show the vicious darkness of his soul; Venustiano Carranza, whose name must ever stand for all that is blackest and vilest and most degrading in the pages of Mexican history, has been recognized by the President of the United States as ruler of the distracted Mexico republic. And this recognition, says the Morning Star, is President Wilson's direct work.

For the past month rumors have been insistent and press dispatches from Washington have indicated that the Wilson administration was planning to recognize Carranza as ruler of Mexico. Protests poured in from the American hierarchy, from every prominent Catholic organization in the United States, and from the Catholic newspapers, voicing the sentiment of nearly 20,000,000 Catholics, all united in the demand that recognition be not given to one who was such an open and bitter enemy of the church and so absolutely incapable of establishing religious liberty in Mexico. The question was put squarely before President Wilson; there was no dodging it, and he has given his answer, which is a direct insult to every American Catholic. He has openly, in defiance of every principle of right and justice, ignored the wishes of 16,000,000 Catholic fellow-citizens and given the protection of our flag and the moral support of our constitution to a party that has no respect for God or man, law or order, and whose expressed determination to persecute Catholics is stipulated in the programme for reconstruction in Mexico submitted by Carranza and accepted by the so-called "diplomatic conference" at Washington. In thus recognizing Carranza, a sworn enemy of the Catholic church, the President has repudiated all the promises made to Catholics by the State Department in December.

President Wilson stands at the bar of this country, and he must answer for his actions. He has ignored the voice of the greatest religious body in this country, which asked him nothing more than it had a right to demand under the constitution of our republic. Has the President, in his respect for or fear of Carranza, forgotten the main principle on which this American republic was founded—the only principle on which any republic can find stability?

From Rome it is cabled that Pope Benedict will hold a consistory shortly at which new Cardinals will be created. The consistory will probably take place before Christmas. Nothing definite or authentic about this.

Patriotism does not consist in waving the flag, singing national songs and entering into a secret conspiracy to injure other citizens on account of race or creed. That sort of patriotism is deviltry.

Hundreds of young men are migrating from Ireland to escape conscription into the British army. They can not see why they should fight for England. Who can?

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS.
Dr. Charles A. Edelen has been confined to his home. Sixth and Oak streets, for the past week, suffering from injuries sustained while crashing his automobile. On Tuesday Clarence Barry, son of James P. Barry, of the Pennsylvania railroad, was struck by an automobile at Nineteenth and Market streets, but fortunately escaped without serious injury.

SPLENDID RESULTS.
A mission of splendid results was held for the men of St. Anthony's church this week by Minor Conventual missionaries from Syracuse. Every service was largely attended and the communicants were in most gratifying numbers. The men's week of mission was opened Sunday, and the two weeks of labor of the missionary fathers will be brought to a solemn close Sunday evening.

SCHOOL FUND BENEFIT.
A euchre and lotto party with pleasant features will be held Monday night in the school hall at Thirtieth and Market, the proceeds to be for the St. Patrick's school building fund. The hostesses for the evening will be Mesdames Victor Henry, Fred Oakleaf, Jos. Ballman, James Foley, Edward McDonald and Frank Broderick.

SHOWER TO BRIDE.
Miss Jeannette Dannenhold was hostess Tuesday at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Edna Tierney. The guests were Mesdames Leo Schulten, Otto Hubbuck, B. Bayless Keller, Edward H. Hinkel, Misses Edna Tierney, Elsie Mazzoni, Mary Tierney, Abbie Chester, Ruth O'Connor, Grace Muzzo of New York, Florence Tierney, Corinne Mazzoni, Rudina Baner, Edith Stark, Eva Beck and Marie Wieland.

YOUNG LADIES' PARTY.
Monday evening at 8 o'clock the young ladies of the Sacred Heart Sodality of Holy Cross church will entertain with a euchre and lotto party in the fine new school building at Thirty-second and Broadway, and have arranged for some very handsome articles to be distributed. They invite their friends and promise them a pleasant evening. The games will be followed by other social entertainments.

FORTY HOURS.
Tomorrow morning the Forty Hours Adoration will open with solemnity at St. Charles Borromeo church. Twenty-seventh and Chestnut, closing Tuesday. Father Raffo, the pastor, will be assisted by clergymen from other churches of the diocese, and it is hoped many will seek the favors that these prayers promise.

INVITE FRIENDS.
The Ladies' Sewing Society of St. Joseph's Orphan Home extends an invitation to the members and friends to attend a lotto party to be given next Thursday afternoon at the orphanage, 2823 Frankfort avenue. Games will be called at 2:30 o'clock. Coffee and luncheon will be served and all will spend an enjoyable afternoon.

ST. LOUIS BERTRAND'S.
The Rev. Father Crowley, Prior of St. Louis Bertrand's church, returned the first of the week from the East and is again in active charge of that large parish. The Rev. Thomas Fitzgerald, O. P., who arrived here from Washington last week, will be one of the assistant priests of the Dominican church.

SOCIAL CARD PARTY.
The Entertainment Committee of the Visitation Home for Working Girls will entertain with a card and lotto social on the afternoon and evening of October 27. This will be the last entertainment for some time to come. Many handsome awards will be made and it is hoped a large crowd will be present.

NINETEEN THOUSAND.
There are 19,000 priests in this great nation of about 100,000,000 souls.

LONESOME.
You needn't tell me, alanna,
Sure, I see it stamped on your face!
The lonesomeness, deep and bitter,
Has left its sorrowful trace.
But lift up your eyes, alanna,
She's there where the light shines
hest;
She's there in her sweetness, alanna,
Smiling in heavenly rest.
Your eyes are sad, alanna,
Your eyes of the gray and blue—
How she loved their smile and their shining
While she watched and waited for you!
The hot tears are there, alanna,
But her hand will wipe them away—
Don't you feel her arm around you
As you vainly strive to pray?
Oh! she's waiting for you, alanna,
And she whispers, "Dear heart,
look up!"
She's happy and safe, alanna—
Sure Christ drank the bitter cup!
Ah! think of her glorious beauty—
Standing beside the throne;
She's praying for you, alanna,
The dearest of all her own!

Why Wage Earners Should Vote For the Tax Amendment at the November Election.

Wage earners are distinctly interested in Taxation and it will be to their interest to vote for the Tax Amendment at the November Election. Under the present unequal law the man who owns a cottage home worth from one to three thousand dollars comes nearer paying full taxes than any other taxpayer.

The reason is plain, as the cottage is easily valued for assessment at about what it cost, while a residence worth ten to twenty thousand dollars is generally owned by people who can persuade the Assessors to lower the assessment and thus evade their share of Taxes.

Then the man who owns Securities can now hide them and escape paying taxes on such property, which adds to the taxes the small Real Estate owner has to pay.

The wage earner who has no taxable property is greatly mistaken if he thinks the question does not concern him.

Taxes enter into the cost of rent and food and clothing and it often occurs that the man who pays no direct taxes contributes more in proportion than any other taxpayer.

The prosperity of labor depends upon employment. Fair taxes mean more factories, more factories mean more work and better wages.

The Tax Amendment will justify a better system of taxation in Kentucky and subject the hoards of wealth now escaping taxation to a fair share of the burden and lower the taxes on houses and factories. Therefore wage earners should vote for the Tax Amendment.

PRECARIOUS

Coalition Government Threatened by Internal and External Dangers.

John Redmond Declares Grave
Political Crisis May Arise
Any Day.

Bitter Opponent of Home Rule Retires From British Cabinet.

ELECTION NOW COMMON TALK

Presiding at the Nationalist convention in Dublin on Monday the Irish leader, John E. Redmond, declared that a grave political crisis might arise any day. The position of the coalition Government, he declared, was precarious. It was threatened by internal and external dangers. A conspiracy existed among men ready to sacrifice national unity in the face of the enemy to further their own political ambitions. It was common talk, said the Irish leader, that a general election was possible, but Ireland could boast that she was not responsible for these dangers.

On Monday in London it was known that Sir Edward Carson, Attorney General, had resigned from the British Cabinet. Prior to the outbreak of the war he was, the leader of the movement against home rule for Ireland, which for a time threatened civil war in Ulster.
At that time he was the Conservative member of Parliament for Dublin University and gained great notoriety for his speeches attacking the Government and sympathizers of home rule, and threatened in case the King signed the home rule bill to aid in setting up a provisional government in Ulster. He was the first to sign the covenant of resistance to home rule and led the Ulsterites in the formation of the Ulster Volunteers. When the present coalition Government was formed last May Sir Edward was given the portfolio of Attorney General. Some of the English newspapers expressed the view that this appointment was a mistake in view of his previous antagonism to the Government.

The most notable cases with which Sir Edward had had to deal since his incumbency of the Attorney Generalship were the Board of Trade's inquiry into the sinking of the Lusitania and the proceedings before the Prize Court for the condemnation of American merchant cargoes which had been seized by the British Government on the ground that they were destined for Germany. Recently there has been unofficial talk in London of Sir Edward being at odds with other members of the Ministry over conscription. The Balkan situation and the Dardanelles expedition. The Attorney General did not attend any of the Cabinet meetings held recently.
In announcing Carson's resignation the London Morning Post said:
"Sir Edward Carson resigned on account of the Near Eastern question. The Government, against his advice, allowed that question to drift, and Sir Edward Carson, who had strong convictions on what he regarded as the right policy, refused to share the responsibility for the results of postponing or evading a decision. No man of intellect and courage could remain in a Government which dallies with and postpones its decisions from day to day on issues where delay is dangerous and may be fatal."

There may be other reasons behind the action of Carson, not the least of which is the refusal of the Government to agree to his demands for a division of Ireland before the home rule bill goes into effect, which just now seems quite far off.

NOTRE DAME.

The first mass at Notre Dame was celebrated 250 years ago, declared Rev. Matthew Walsh, C. S. C., Vice President of Notre Dame University, in an impressive sermon which he delivered in the university church on Founders' day, October 13. In an impressive sermon, rich in historical allusion and reminiscence, the reverend speaker reviewed the history of Notre Dame. Marquette and Allouez and the great La Salle are among the men who visited the site of the university in those early days.
Lator Father Badin, the first priest ordained in the United States, made this spot his headquarters for the Northwestern Indian missions. His remains now lie under the little log chapel on the old mission site.
Founders' day at Notre Dame was formerly President's day.

SUFFERING HARSHIPS.

Perhaps the real and fundamental reason why missionary priests in our own luxurious United States are suffering hardships that seventeenth century missionaries were acquainted with is because the vast majority of American Catholics are unacquainted with their needs.
Our Catholic missionaries suffer cold and hunger; they suffer everything including spiritual inconveniences, and the great reason is simply this: Their fellow Catholics do not realize their want. If they did it is inconceivable that they would not stretch forth a helping hand to relieve their necessities, especially as most Catholics realize the truth of the axiom that what is given to the poor is given to God, who repays generously. And who is poorer than a missionary? There are many people who owe something to the missions. They have received grace and favors, both spiritual and temporal. They could give in thanksgiving. Such a gift is like a perpetual prayer for the donor. There are many priests anxiously awaiting them. Donations may be sent to the office of the Catholic Church Extension Society, located in the Mc-Cormick building, Chicago.

MAGNIFICENT MONSTRANCE.

One of the grandest works of art produced in this century is said to be the magnificent gold monstrance which His Holiness the Pope has donated to the Cathedral of Bologna as a token of affection for his old diocese. The monstrance is of massive gold, artistically chased, surmounted by a cross made of Oriental pearls and amethysts. The base consists of Oriental stone, on which scenes of the Five Glorious Mysteries of the Rosary are represented.

the North American College in self in his studies, winning the de-

INVESTIGATION

Being Made Slowly Into the Real
Conditions of the Middle Ages.

Dominican Father Dietrich and
His Work on the Rainbow Theory.

Medieval Scholars Furnished
Contributions to Natural Science Ages Ago.

DARKNESS GROWING BRIGHTER

In the stock vocabulary of our "modern scholars" there is no phrase used with more ease and assurance than "the darkness of the middle ages." If an orator or an editor or an historian wishes to express the very essence of human ignorance and degradation the bugaboo of the pre-reformation era is ushered forth into the speech or printed page. The tradition of the Protestant revolt has done its work well, and the expression is as a rule made and received as a matter no longer even requiring confirmation. Progress and invention and valuable discovery is thought to be a peculiar product of the historical period in which we live.

Investigation would of course have shown the fallacy of such an indictment against the medieval era, as it has done to not a few men in the past. And today, painfully and slowly, investigation is being made into the real conditions of the middle ages. The chaos and uncertainty within our modern society and the utter failure of Protestantism to meet the social or individual needs of men has turned the attention of many thinkers to that period which preceded our present age. Discovery as a consequence is being made that the pursuit of knowledge in many unbelievable forms flourished in that much abused time.

Even to natural science, of which our present generation so proudly and with some justice claims as its own, the medieval scholars furnished contributions. A very striking example of this fact has been brought to the attention of the learned world of late in the recent translation from the Latin into German, by the distinguished Prof. Wierschmidt, of the University of Erlangen, of the work of the Dominican Father Dietrich on "The Theory of the Rainbow." This volume was compiled between the years 1304 and 1310, in the very heart of the middle ages, and has won, particularly since its translation, the praise and commendation of many learned men.
Prof. Hellmann, for example, the renowned meteorologist of Hamburg, Germany, declares that "it is the greatest achievement of its kind in the West during the middle ages." It is also, he says, a valuable contribution to the science with which it deals. And of its author the well known Max Jacob says: "Master Dietrich was the first one to discover that the rainbow originates through the double breaking and one reflex of the rays of the sun in the raindrop. We have to thank him for the first correct design of the path of the ray as it enters and leaves the little sphere."

Each particular period of history, it must be remembered, aside from the correct or destructive ethical views which may exist, has a peculiar department of human endeavor in which it excels. This is the secret of true human progress. There can be no doubt that today natural science is better understood than at any other time. In many other subjects, however, we must admit that we are deficient. And when we find, as in this case, that even upon our favorite study we have not obtained a monopoly, we should be slow to set up our era and ourselves as the acme of learning and enlightenment. The middle ages, product of true Christian thought, have many wondrous things to teach us. Profitable for all of us would be the more intense study of the ages of faith and an undivided Christianity. C. B. of C. V.

GREAT IRISH SAINT.

November 21, 1915, is the 1300th
anniversary of the death of St.
Columbanus. He was born in West Leinster, Ireland, in 543, and died at Bobbio, Italy, November 21, 615.
Few men of his age are so well known. An Italian monk of his community has left us his biography and his own writings extant are numerous. The latter show great learning and prove that he was a scholar as well as a saint. He studied under Abbot Snell at Lough Erne, and during his student days composed a creditable commentary on the Psalms. He then went to the Monastery of Bangor, on the coast of Down, whose Abbot was St.
Comgall. He joined the monastic order and stayed until he was forty, when with twelve companions he went as missionaries to the Continent, after staying a short time in England. He and his companions continued their apostolic work through the different countries of Europe. He founded the Abbey of Luxeuil in France. He went to Italy in 612 and founded the Abbey of Bobbio, where he continued to reside until his death. As noticed some little while ago, there has been founded in Ireland a society of Knights of St. Columbanus, patterned after the Knights of Columbanus in this country.

ACTORS' RETREAT.

The first annual retreat of the Catholic Actors' Guild of America opened Sunday in the Church of St.
Malachy, Broadway and Forty-ninth street, New York, and continued until Wednesday, under the direction of the chaplain, Rev. Joseph F.
Delany, D. D. The sermons were preached by Rev. John Talbot Smith.
